

For more information contact:
Julie Soltis, Director of Communications
720.562.4307 | jsoltis@frasiermeadows.org

Inaugural Pollinator Garden Begins at Frasier

Boulder, CO: In synch and in honor of Earth Day, Frasier, a senior living community in Boulder, welcomed its first pollinator garden with a ceremonial planting. The red currant bush, native to the CO front range, is the first plant to get the garden started-bedding plants will be planted after Mother's Day. The Frasier pollinator garden, part of Boulder's Pollinator Garden Project, is a new program to encourage the creation of high-quality pollinator habitat throughout the City - to help make Boulder a pollinator haven. For more information on the program visit:

<https://bouldercolorado.gov/planning/boulder-pollinator-garden-project>